Comfort Under the Table

EVERYTHING is more enjoyable, when you discard the shoes that hurt your feet—uncomfortable shoes, not made correctly. These are the shoes that women slip off under the card table or the theatre seat. You can usually tell when they do it. Watch their tired expression go away.

Everywhere you go nowadays you see good looking feet in comfortable Cantilever Shoes. Smart as they are there is no desire to slip them off.

Happy are the women who wear Cantilever Shoes. They can walk—gracefully—as far as their husbands, their brothers, their sweethearts, as the case may be. And how a man does love a good pal!

If a dancing pump is worn in the evening, when the critical eyes of the "sitters out" are appraising one's every movement, the clever woman will keep up the strength and health of her feet by wearing proper shoes in daytime. And how much more admiration she will inspire as she swings naturally and gracefully along the street with feet free and comfortable!

Cantilever Shoes have the flexible arch which allows the foot natural action, which prevents or corrects a weak foot by permitting good circulation and strengthening exercise of the arch muscles. Shaped like the foot, with room for the toes without crowding, and good heels rightly placed, Cantilever Shoes are not only healthful and comfortable, but they are good looking.

If you look your best when you are happy, you will look your best in Cantilever Shoes.

If no dealer listed at the left is near you, the Manufacturers, Morse & Burt Co., 11 Carlton Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., will mail you the Cantilever Shoe Booklet and the address of a nearby dealer.

JUDGE JAMES H. WILKERSON

Who recently granted a sweeping injunction forbidding striking railroad shopmen to interfere with the operation of railroads. (International.)

REMARKABLE ALTAR MADE OF SALT

An altar that is probably unique in its way is this which was found in the famous Polish salt mines at Wieliczka, Poland. It is built of solid rock salt, and is complete in every detail. It stands in a chapel of similar design installed for the use of the workers in the salt mines. It seems to be marked for perpetuity, as the disintegration is scarcely more marked than though it were built of stone. (International.)

MILITARISTIC BAVARIA

Nowhere in Germany perhaps is the monarchist and the militaristic element so strong at the present moment as in Bavaria. Field Marshal von Hindenberg is here seen at a demonstration which took place on his arrival in Munich on Aug. 20. Parties and receptions on the 20th and 21st were held in his honor and intense enthusiasm was manifested.

Washington Crypt in Capitol; Veteran Actress at Fete

WASHINGTON CRYPT

The crypt here shown was originally made by cutting a hole in the rotunda floor of the Capitol, and was intended to hold the remains of George Washington. Washington's will, however, prescribed that he be buried at Mount Vernon, and the crypt is now used as a resting place for the catafalque which supported the remains of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley.

k; Mine Disaster in California Entombs Twoscore Miners

ATTEMPTS TO RESCUE FORTY-SEVEN ENTRAPPED MINERS

On Aug. 27 forty-seven men were trapped by fire in the Argonaut Gold Mine, Jackson, Amador County, Cal., forty miles from Sacramento. The picture below shows the mine itself, and at the left are seen fellow-workmen descending to the rescue of their comrades. By Aug. 31 the flames had been conquered, but the heat was so intense that it was stated that flames might break out again at any moment. Despite this, desperate efforts have been in progress to reach the men in the hope that they might have found some safe spot 4,600 feet below the earth's surface. The scenes around the mine, where anxious wives, mothers and sweet-hearts gathered frantically, are described as having been heart-rending.

Aviation Advances—Wreck of New York-Brazil Plane

SKID-LANDING GEAR BEING TESTED BY INVENTOR

Lawrence B. Sperry, inventor and aviator, demonstrating his airplane combination wheel and skid landing gear, which, he claims, makes it possible to land within a limit of fifty feet, and also to avoid the damage consequent on landing on water or on rough fields full of knolls and ditches.

(Wide World Photos.)

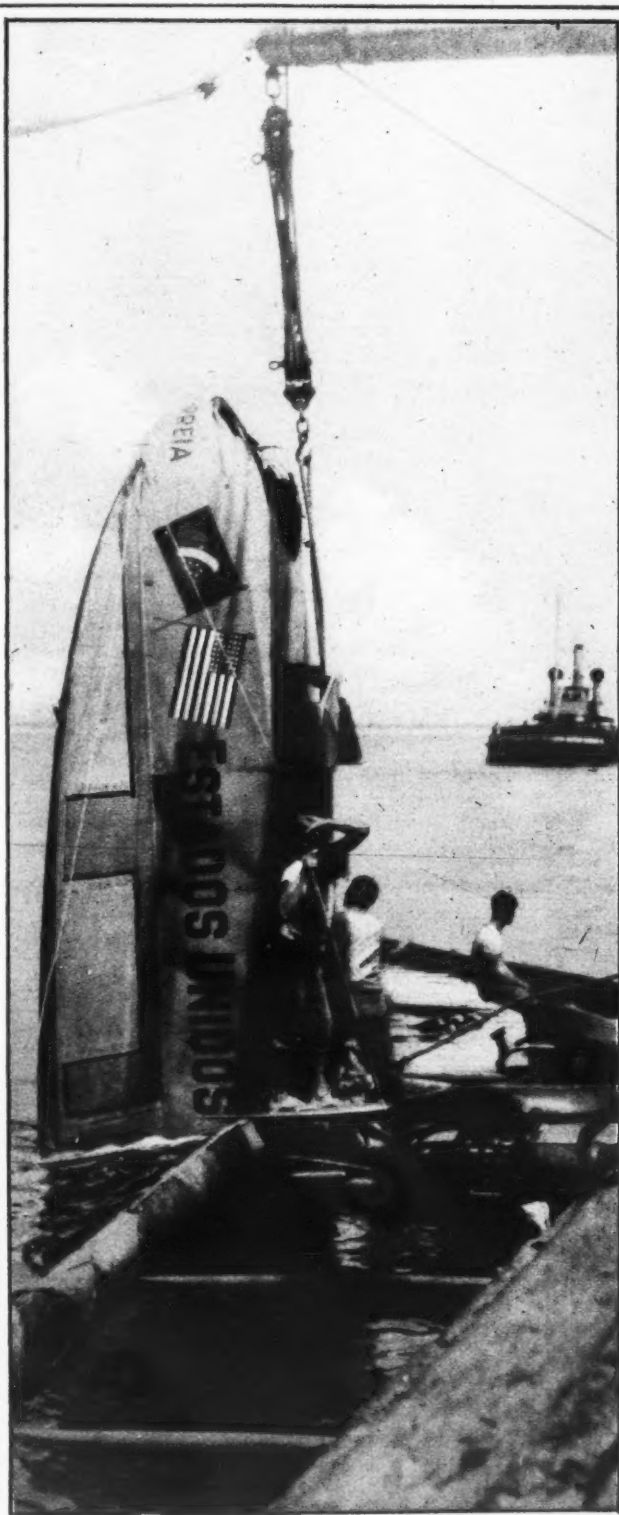

NOVELTY IN AIRPLANES

Close-up view of the new Sperry airplane, which it is claimed will greatly reduce the danger of damage or fatality.

The landing gear can be dropped so as to get rid of the weight and head resistance, thereby increasing the performance in climb and speed of the plane. A parachute is used to drop the wheels to the ground when the plane is in midair. The absence of the wheels lessens the danger of an accident in case of landing on water, as the wheels when retained are liable to turn the machine over.

Important Work of United States Forestry Service in Protecting and Developing Nation's Timber Supply

One of the most unique forest fire lookouts in the country. It is an observation station located on top of a giant pine tree in the Shasta National Forest, California.

Destructive fire in the Angeles National Forest, California. In the last five years 56,000,000 acres of land in forty-five States have been burned over by forest fires. Eighty per cent. of these were man-caused and therefore preventable.

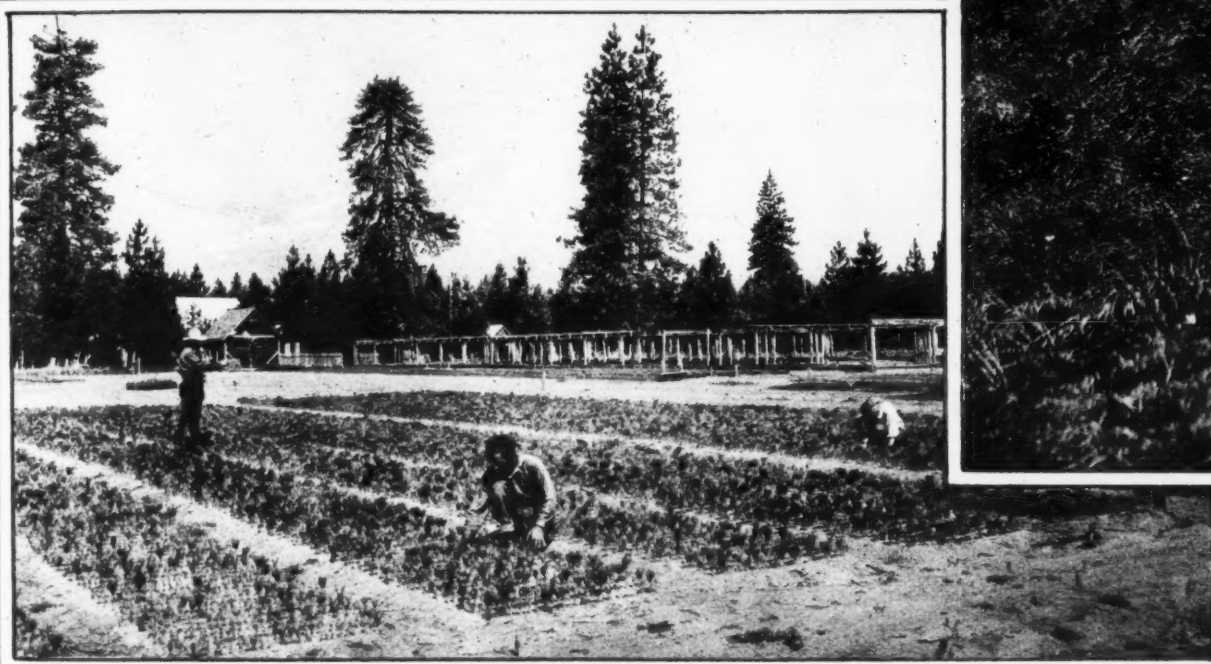

One of the guardians of the Government's great national forests watching for forest-fire smoke from a high point. The forest rangers require special qualities of courage and integrity and are picked men.

A forest nursery where millions of spruce and pine trees are being raised under the supervision of the United States Forest Service to replace the vast denuded areas in the national forests.

FEW Government bureaus and departments have work so important as that which devolves upon the United States Forest Service in the conservation of the timber resources of the nation and the reforestation of tracts that have suffered from the ravages of fire and the excessive greed of the lumberman. For a long series of years little was done in this direction, because the idea prevailed that with the immense wealth of the nation in trees there was no need of care to conserve them. Later on, when the results of this prodigal waste of resources became apparent, the Government woke up and of late years very marked progress has been made in protecting the National Forests from fire and from the excessive inroads of the logging industry. The pictures on this page, which we owe to the courtesy of the United States Forest Service, show in a very interesting way some of the multifold activities of that organization. Vast areas are being reforested, others are being maintained intact, while the most stringent measures are being taken to prevent fires.

Sheep grazing on the National Forest preserves in Colorado. Nearly seven and one-half million sheep are grazed each season on the National Forests of the West.

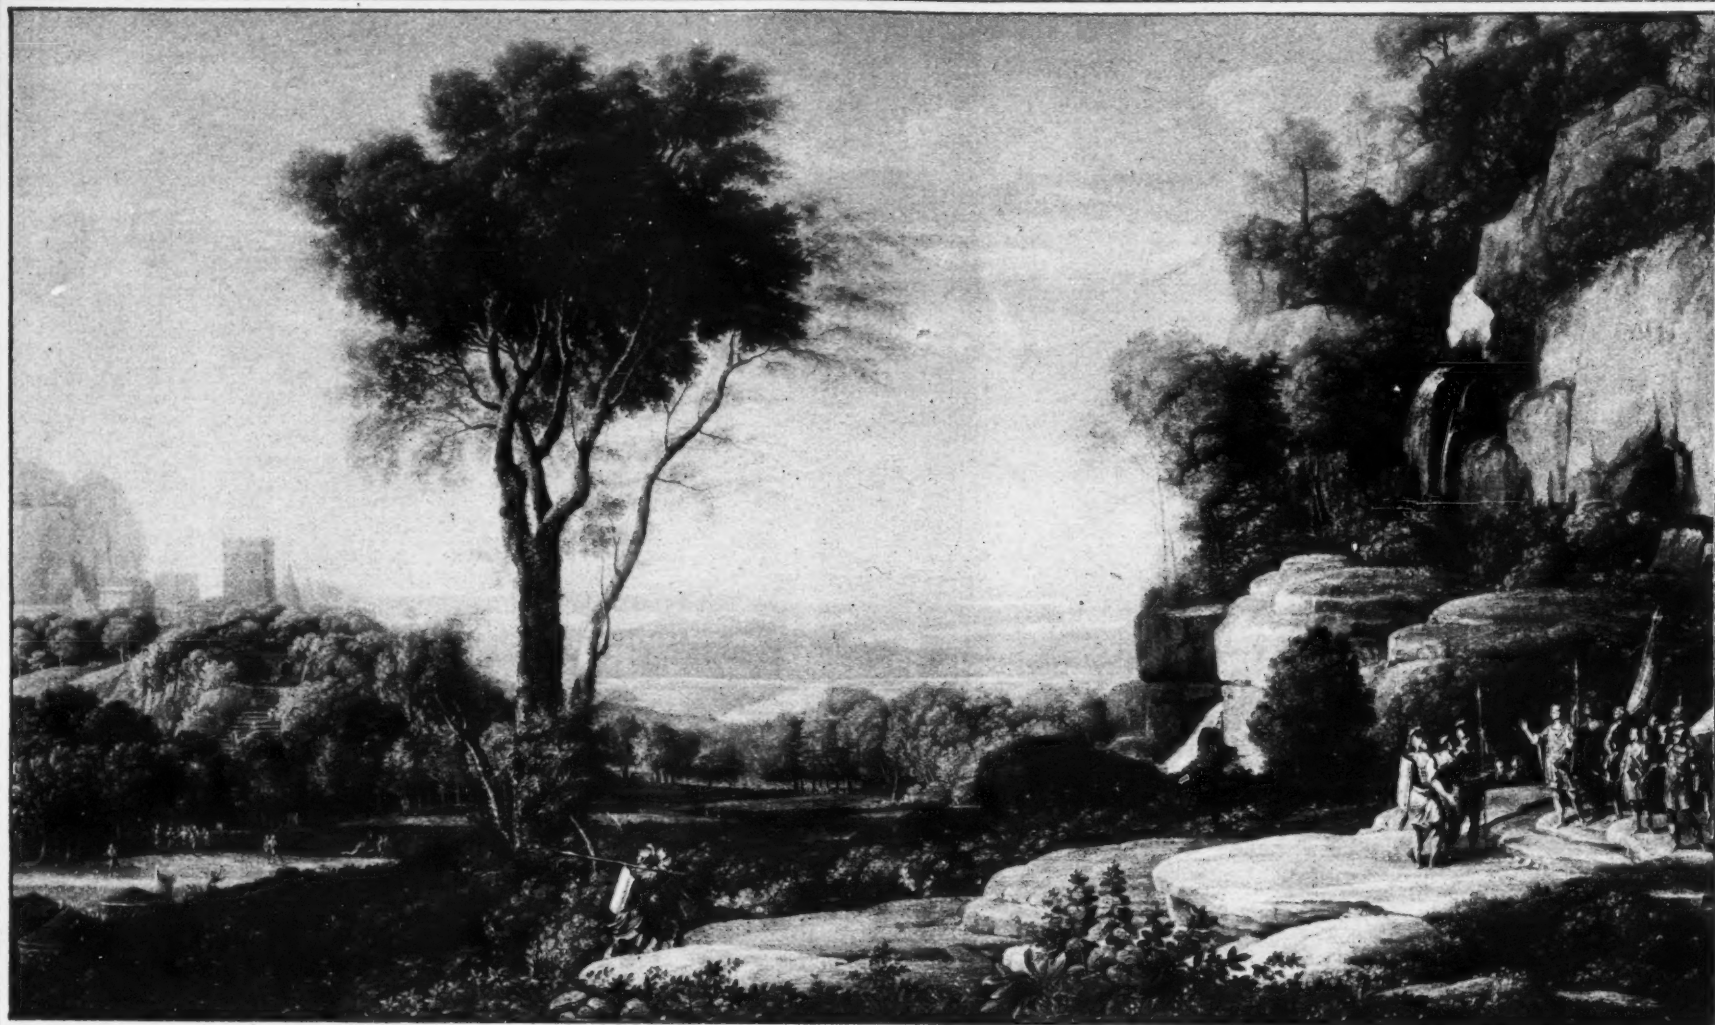

Forest planting crew in action. Thousands of acres which have been denuded by fire and destructive logging are thus replanted with pine and spruce every year.
